

Clea Roberts

Laundry Day

A deer ruminates in the field.
Chops thaw on the counter.

I separate the lint givers
from the lint takers.

No time for poetry
but the dryer vents
eloquently into autumn air.

Somewhere dog and fox circle,
consider the food chain,
disengage.

It all balances out.