

A complex network diagram made of string and colored beads. The diagram consists of numerous small, multi-colored beads (blue, green, yellow, orange, red, black, and white) connected by thin, light-colored strings. The connections form a dense, branching web that fills the entire page. The beads are of various shapes, including circles, squares, and triangles, and some have small numbers or letters on them. The overall effect is a highly detailed and intricate representation of a network or system.

TCR

THE CAPILANO REVIEW