

Impermeable

Kay Gordon

Kay Gordon, Impermeable (Raincoat for Katrina), 2005, newspaper (reporting on Hurricane Katrina & FEMA's Michael Brown...), thread, matte medium, polyurethane, 63 x 34 x 12 inches
Photograph by Bob Sasson
Image courtesy of the artist

Impermeable is a (useless) raincoat sewn from newspapers headlining the devastation of Hurricane Katrina in 2005 and the terribly inadequate response from FEMA, Michael Brown, and the Bush administration.

Impermeable was included in the exhibit "(Social) Status: Update," Nurture Art, Brooklyn, NY, 2018.