

THE CAPILANO REVIEW

Number 27

1983

CONTENTS

- Earth Song/Body Song* 5 Douglas Barbour
- Mr. Guest Arrives in Kleinberg* 10 Michael C. Kenyon
- Recent Sculpture* 22 Al McWilliams
- Preface & Descriptive Notes Ann Rosenberg & Aaron Steele
- A Partial Draft of Inchoate
Road* 51 bp Nichol
- Listen to This Train* 74 Sue Laver

COVER

- Detail Ruminations on a Set of Circumstances* Al McWilliams

the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are employed in the public sector has increased by 1.5 million, from 2.5 million in 1980 to 4 million in 1995 (Department of Health 1996).

There is a growing emphasis on the need to improve the efficiency of the public sector, and to ensure that the public sector is able to deliver the services that are required by the public. This has led to a number of initiatives, including the introduction of competition, the restructuring of public sector organisations, and the introduction of performance measures. The aim of these initiatives is to ensure that the public sector is able to deliver the services that are required by the public, in a cost-effective and efficient manner.

One of the key initiatives in the public sector is the introduction of competition. This has led to a number of public sector organisations being privatised, and to a number of public sector organisations being required to compete for contracts. This has led to a number of public sector organisations being required to improve their efficiency, and to reduce their costs. This has led to a number of public sector organisations being required to improve their quality of service, and to ensure that they are able to deliver the services that are required by the public.

Another key initiative in the public sector is the restructuring of public sector organisations. This has led to a number of public sector organisations being merged, and to a number of public sector organisations being required to reorganise their structure. This has led to a number of public sector organisations being required to improve their efficiency, and to reduce their costs. This has led to a number of public sector organisations being required to improve their quality of service, and to ensure that they are able to deliver the services that are required by the public.

A third key initiative in the public sector is the introduction of performance measures. This has led to a number of public sector organisations being required to measure their performance, and to report on their performance. This has led to a number of public sector organisations being required to improve their efficiency, and to reduce their costs. This has led to a number of public sector organisations being required to improve their quality of service, and to ensure that they are able to deliver the services that are required by the public.

These initiatives have led to a number of public sector organisations being required to improve their efficiency, and to reduce their costs. This has led to a number of public sector organisations being required to improve their quality of service, and to ensure that they are able to deliver the services that are required by the public. This has led to a number of public sector organisations being required to improve their performance, and to ensure that they are able to deliver the services that are required by the public.

The aim of these initiatives is to ensure that the public sector is able to deliver the services that are required by the public, in a cost-effective and efficient manner. This has led to a number of public sector organisations being required to improve their efficiency, and to reduce their costs. This has led to a number of public sector organisations being required to improve their quality of service, and to ensure that they are able to deliver the services that are required by the public.