van der Hoek, Y & K Martin (2018) Woodpecker cavity-tree selection in the Ecuadorean Amazon region. Ornitología Neotropical 29: 95–99.

Table S1. Composition of all known tree-cavity-nesting birds found in our study area near Tena, Ecuador (van der Hoek et al. in prep), with a denotation when observed using (O) or nesting (N) in tree cavities during the study. Species are classified as to their presence in lowland rainforest and piedmont rainforest (undisturbed forest) or largely altered habitat (landscape disturbed by agrofarming and other human activities) in our study area (pers. obs; further information in Ridgely & Greenfield 2001). Taxonomy follows the South American Classification Committee (SACC, Remsen et al. 2016).
